Dear State Engineer Jason King State Engineer King, State Engineer,

We believe the scientific information is overwhelming: Draining 50 billion gallons of groundwater from the Great Basin would devastate Native American communities, rural economies and wildlife habitat over a huge area.

Further, the families and small businesses of Las Vegas, recovering from a brutal recession, cannot afford the huge price tag for this project.

It is about time, Southern Nevada and it's developers learn to live within their own limited resource means. They have not done so in the past—they have depleted their water table by many feet through the years with no care or thought. And just piping in more water will not help them to learn how to do so! Especially, not at such a huge expense—the money, and the devastation of rural Nevada, and it's wildlife. Is this the price you really want to pay for Southern Nevada's unreasonable, unrealistic, and uncontrollable growth? I don't. Thank you. JK Frey

Sincerely,

Janice Kay Frey
