Subject: A 300-Mile Pipeline is Not the Answer.

Dear Jason King,

I don't live in Nevada, but I visit often and my sister in Las Vegas alerted me to this crazy pipeline plan. How could the state even consider draining water from a wonderful national park? I won't be spending any more gambling money in Las Vegas if you all do this: my sister can come visit me in California instead!

Great Basin National Park is an extraordinary place--remote, scenic, and treasured by millions of Americans who value our national park system. Plans to pump millions and millions of gallons from the park's vast ecosystem greatly threaten what is special about this place. Please help be sure that the park's resources are sustained for generations to come.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Susan Carter
