Dear State Engineer Jason King State Engineer King,

We believe the scientific information is overwhelming: Draining 50 billion gallons of groundwater from the Great Basin would devastate Native American communities, rural economies and wildlife habitat over a huge area.

Further, the families and small businesses of Las Vegas, recovering from a brutal recession, cannot afford the huge price tag for this project.

If the pipeline has increased to such a degree ! to 15 million. I have to agree, I am not sure we need that much extra cost associated with our water, and later water bills. There must be a better way to circumvent the problem, than to charge people for services they do not need.

However, water is a necessity. How about cutting down on these fountains, lakes, ponds, and so forth in Southern Nevada. More efficient use of the water, recycling and hopefully more positive results and new ideas to evolve.
