Dear State Engineer Jason King State Engineer King,

We believe the scientific information is overwhelming: Draining 50 billion gallons of groundwater from the Great Basin would devastate Native American communities, rural economies and wildlife habitat over a huge area.

Further, the families and small businesses of Las Vegas, recovering from a brutal recession, cannot afford the huge price tag for this project.

The amount of water available in the Colorado water shed needs to be increased for local consumption. A trade off with down stream customers needs to be approached before nailing We The People with yet another increase in utility bills.

What makes you think that the survival of White Pine and Lincoln counties is less important than that of Clark county?

Sincerely,

William Shuster
