Dear State Engineer Jason King State Engineer King, State Engineer,

We believe the scientific information is overwhelming: Draining 50 billion gallons of groundwater from the Great Basin would devastate Native American communities, rural economies and wildlife habitat over a huge area.

Further, the families and small businesses of Las Vegas, recovering from a brutal recession, cannot afford the huge price tag for this project.

With the population in Southern Nevada declining, this pipeline is not needed and a waste of money that could possibly be used for a better purpose, I suggest that we invest in alternative methods to get water, to reclaim water and to save.

To suck the state dry is not much better than what has happened in California and they sit on a vast ocean of water that could be processed and utilized for domestic use and never touch the waters of the Sierra Nevada mountains and streams.

Sincerely,

Jeff Haliczzer
